HUMANITARIAN SPIRIT OF PAPUA NEW GUINEA

What an amazing evening. With the Mens Shed hosting and Blackall Range Lions organising it was a great community gathering and a very successful fundraiser. Despite the rain during Peter's talk – which seemed like a little PNG reality, the donations, raffles and auction of PNG artefacts was not dampened by the 75 people who attended. More the $13,500 was raised to help remote villages on the Ghost Mountain Trail get basic medical help and education. Here are some audience comments:

I had no idea these men at 20 odd years of age were so involved in governing PNG. IN the 1960's Col was in some of the remotest parts of the country. His anecdotes of trying to bring law and order to tribes who had barely seen white people were captivating. Stories of gruesome rituals, and in particular the suspected murder of Col's local Constable Okomba kept the audience enthralled. Col's love of PNG and the lasting impression it left on him was very obvious. We are lucky to have such people in our community.

John had such an amazing career and a huge responsibility over vast areas of PNG. He made us realise how little we actually knew, and how complex the situation was in PNG then (1960's and 1970's), and now. The many short stories of John's exploits especially to some of the more warlike villages and how their differences were resolved were absolutely fascinating. John obviously feels strongly for PNG and treasures the 16 years he spent there during which time he was married and started a family.

The first being the organisation of a documentary to provide a historical record of the Flying Dutchman tragedy. This requires great conviction and effort. My respect for Peter grew as he showed photos of the villagers along the Ghost Mountain Trail who he has treated in the past with basic medication he carried with him. Peter's concern for these villagers was very clear. It led to his determination to raise funds to provide a medical facility for the villagers where they currently have nothing. This is a truly humanitarian project.

An Exhibition by Genevieve Clark

From Genevieve—As you step away from the business of life to view these images, you are invited to pause and reflect. The beauty of creation and the quiet moments of stillness point us to the presence and greatness of God. As you follow the images around the church (in a clockwise direction from the entrance), let the words of scripture guide you. See God as creator, marvel at God's power, hear of God's love and God's plans for you in Christ. Receive the strength and peace that God alone gives.

Genevieve Clark is a retired educational leader who has become a passionate iphone photographer. She lives in the beautiful Dundowran Beach on the outskirts of Hervey Bay. As she explores Australia, farm-sitting and house-sitting, she enjoys using her camera to capture the beauty of her surroundings. She hopes her visual language encourages others to experience and understand Bible verses in a tangible, emotional and contemplative way, while also showcasing the amazing country we live in.

QCCC WEEKLY UPDATE

This weekend we welcome a full-site Church Family Camp, with families of all ages coming together for connection, worship, and recreation. As is typical for these kinds of gatherings, guests will enjoy some structured group sessions in Kirkwood Hall, as well as plenty of time outdoors with games and activities on the oval. Family camps also love to explore Mapleton during their stay, so expect to see some friendly faces visiting local shops and cafés. As we enter Week 10 of Term 3, we're seeing the usual strong demand for school camps:

- From Monday to Wednesday, a Brisbane school will fill the entire site for their Grade 5 camp.
- On Wednesday, we welcome three more schools:
 - o A Grade 5 camp from Brisbane
 - o A Grade 5 cohort from the Sunshine Coast
 - o A Grade 7 group, also from the Sunshine Coast

At the same time, our Outdoor Education team will be running a Grade 9 Survival Camp at Cobb and Co Campgrounds near Gympie. While this particular camp won't include a solo component, it marks the first time this school is engaging with our Survival format—a strong indicator of the growing popularity and reputation of this program. With exclusive use of the property and a wide range of immersive activities, Cobb and Co continues to provide an ideal setting for bush-based learning, challenge, and growth.

BEHIND THE SCENES – QCCC MAPLETON'S KITCHEN TEAM

Every year, QCCC Mapleton serves more than 160,000 meals to guests of all ages and backgrounds—from school students to international visitors, church groups to adventure racers. It's a massive effort that runs quietly (and efficiently) behind the scenes, powered by a dedicated team of chefs, cooks, kitchen hands, and our Special Diets Coordinator.

Our kitchen is more than a place of food preparation—it's an expression of Christian hospitality; a value deeply embedded in the church's history. From the earliest days of the Christian movement, meals have been central to community, care, and welcome. At QCCC, we follow in those footsteps, striving to provide food that nourishes not just the body, but also communicates warmth, dignity, and grace.

Whether it's a hearty meal after a day in the bush or a carefully prepared plate for a child with allergies, every dish is an opportunity to serve with excellence and compassion.

Grow Australian Plants

Hakea actites

Wallum hakea

A hardy erect multi branched shrub to 3m tall with long needle like foliage. The white to pink flowers are in axillary clusters and observed in winter to spring.

The unusual, sharp pointed, woody seedpods grow to around 3.5cm in length.

Prefers full sun to part shade and will grow on the light forest soils along the Blackall Range.

This species is found in swampy locations in coastal areas from around Hervey Bay in south east Queensland to a little north of Coffs Harbour in New South Wales.

This species provides protection, nesting sites and nectar for small birds due to its prickly habit and profuse flowering. Attracts bees.

Groundsel bush

Baccharis halimifolia

Groundsel Bush is native to the eastern coast of North America and the West Indies.

Category 3 Restricted Matter (Biosecurity Act 2014)

An upright bushy shrub (1-3m tall) with much-branched stems that become woody with age. Its waxy leaves (2.5-7.0cm long and 1-4cm wide) have coarsely toothed margins. It produces separate male and female flowerheads on separate plants. The male flower heads are cream to yellow, while the female flower heads are white.

Groundsel bush is regarded as a significant environmental weed in Queensland and New South Wales. During a recent study it was listed as the second most important invasive plant species in south east Queensland. It also rated highly in a survey of the most important environmental weeds of the New South Wales North Coast region. It is actively managed by community groups in Queensland and is also currently listed as a priority environmental weed in two Natural Resource Management regions.

This species is of most concern in subtropical melaleuca wetlands, where it can form a dense understorey that suppresses the growth of native sedges and interferes with the natural ecosystem. It can also become abundant in native vegetation along watercourses and in coastal woodlands and forests. Conservation areas are also under threat from invasion by this species, and it has invaded several reserves in Queensland (e.g. Noosa National Park, Maroochy River Conservation Park and Pimpama River Conservation Area) and New South Wales (e.g. Ballina Nature Reserve, Wooyung Nature Reserve and Cullendulla National Park).

CALLING LANDSCAPE OIL PAINTERS

Unleash your creativity and discover the magic of 'En plein-air' painting with the newly formed, 'Hinterland Plein Air Oil Painters'. A group whose mission is to bring oil painters together in the hinterland —sharing brushes, stories, and the life-changing magic that happens when oil paints meet canvas under open skies.

Group organiser and local artist Sylvie Carter convenes the paint outs every second Friday at a designated location. Local artists and visitors to the region are most welcome. Artists bring their picnic lunch and refreshments so they can settle in for a day of painting, just like the revolutionary Impressionists who abandoned their studios for the outdoors and chasing the perfect light.

Whether you're seasoned or just starting your artistic journey, you will be painting alongside a passionate group of oil painters. Your vision awaits – and it's completely FREE! To learn more contact Sylvie at info@sylviecarterartist.com M. 0407 906036

The festival opens on Friday 3 October with an intimate Welcome Dinner at Homegrown Café, followed by a powerful Opening Night Concert, Migrating Bird, featuring Véronique Serret and band with special guest William Barton. Other highlights include Ensemble Q, Courtenay Cleary and Alex Raineri in recital, our Appalachian Spring Gala featuring a festival commission world premiere by Queensland composer Nicole Murphy, and Blues on the Range with State of Appalachia and Hat Fitz & Cara.

Audiences can expect spellbinding concerts, genre-bending collaborations, sound journeys, author conversations, and cultural immersions, set in small halls and community spaces curated and programmed by Louise King, cellist and founder.

This project is proudly supported by the Queensland Government through Arts Queensland, the Queensland Arts Showcase Programme, the Regional Arts Development Fund (Queensland Government and Sunshine Coast Council), the Australian Cultural Fund, the Sunshine Coast Arts Foundation, and a generous community of donors.

DANCING WITH WORDS

Saturday, 8 November / 9am - 12pm
Black Box Theatre, Nambour

Build your creative writing talents through guided movement routines, role plays and writing exercises, and apply them to the composition of expressive and poetic scenes, stories and poems for the stage, a book or an artistic project.

This workshop series offers hands-on practice of creative writing, focusing on the contemporary stage and an in-depth exploration of sounds, words, sentences and texts in English and other languages. We offer an inclusive space that encourages participants of any linguistic background to explore their awareness of the relationship between spoken word, written language and physical body from their own cultural perspective.
