ZONTA CLUB OF BLACKALL RANGE INC

16 Days of Activism to End Violence Against Women

We all have the right to feel safe – in our homes, in the community, at work, as students, and online. Yet for millions of women around the world, safety is never certain.

Tuesday 25 November is the International Day for the Elimination of Violence against Women, and launches the annual 16 Days of Activism campaign. Running through to World Human Rights Day on 10 December, this movement raises awareness of a global human rights emergency - every ten minutes, a woman is killed by an intimate partner or family member. In Australia last year, it was one woman every eight days – a daughter, mother, friend or neighbour, who deserved safety, respect, and a future.

The Zonta Club of Blackall Range, and Speak Up Now - Stop Domestic and Family Violence - Maleny and Blackall Range, will be providing information including emergency services and contact numbers, at their red benches and other prominent locations across the Range [including Maleny, Mapleton, Montville, Palmwoods, Kenilworth]. By sharing information, and having open discussions, we can build safer communities.

Orange is the key United Nations colour for unifying global activities and drawing attention to women's safety. We all have a role to play. During the 16 Days of Activism, Zonta and Speak Up Now encourage you to wear orange, "orange" digital spaces, display awareness posters to spread the message, and consider how you can continue to advocate for the end of violence against women and girls so that they are #SafeEverywhereAlways.

You can download resources from the Zonta Blackall Range Facebook page for sharing to socials, in your staff kitchen, in your business window - everywhere has impact. Together, we can and must make a difference. Every action, big or small, contributes to a culture that refuses to tolerate violence.

MALENY DISTRICT PARK

Council is preparing a Concept Plam for Maleny District Park and invited community feedback on the proposed concept plan.

The Maleny District Park concept plan proposes four distinct areas offering a range of recreational experiences, including lookouts, play areas, a mountain bike course, and a community hub, all linked by an expanded trail network. The plan has been refined based on extensive community feedback.

Four Distinct Areas
The Maleny District Park is divided into four zones:
The Lookout: A picnic area with trails and views across the precinct.
The Bails: A gathering space near the old milking bails with lawns, picnic spots, and a nature play area.
The Hill: An adventure zone featuring a proposed mountain bike skills course, a slide, and viewing areas.
The Hub: The main activity area with a fenced dog exercise area, youth zone, sports courts, picnic areas, and toilets.

Key Features and Priorities
The plan incorporates community feedback and focuses on enhancing natural beauty and accessibility. Based on community consultation, top priorities for the first stage at "The Hub" include:

- Youth activity area
- Toilet facilities
- Primary footpath network (accessible)
- Linking trail network
- Fenced dog exercise area

Next Steps
The refined concept plan is based on community engagement from May and June 2025. The final plan is anticipated to be shared with the community in early 2026 (TBC).
More details and updates are available on the Have your Say Sunshine Coast website.

Toothpaste "made of hair" is not currently available on the commercial market, but is the subject of recent, promising scientific research. Scientists have developed a prototype that uses keratin, the protein found in hair, skin, and wool, to repair tooth enamel.

Keratin Toothpaste Research

Researchers at King's College London have discovered that keratin can help stop early stages of tooth decay and potentially regrow enamel.

Mechanism: When applied to the tooth surface, the keratin forms a crystal-like scaffold that mimics the structure of natural enamel. This scaffold then attracts minerals already present in saliva (calcium and phosphate ions), leading to the growth of a protective, enamel-like coating over time.

Benefits: This method could provide a more natural, sustainable, and durable alternative to traditional dental resins and even standard fluoride treatments, which slow decay but cannot regenerate lost enamel. It could also reduce tooth sensitivity by sealing exposed nerve channels.

Availability: The scientists believe that with further development and industry partnerships, keratin-based toothpaste or a professionally applied dental gel could be available to the public within the next two to three years.

Current Commercial Toothpaste Ingredients

Existing commercial toothpastes do not contain hair or keratin as an active ingredient. Common ingredients include:

- Fluoride: A key ingredient (e.g., sodium fluoride, stannous fluoride) that strengthens enamel and prevents cavities.
- Abrasives: Gentle scrubbers like hydrated silica or calcium carbonate that remove plaque and stains.
- Humectants: Ingredients such as glycerin or sorbitol that prevent the toothpaste from drying out.
- Thickening Agents: Binders like cellulose gum or xanthan gum to achieve the desired consistency.
- Surfactants: Foaming agents like sodium lauryl sulfate (SLS) to help distribute the paste.

Flavorings/Sweeteners: Such as peppermint oil or xylitol to improve taste and provide freshness.

While a ‘hair toothpaste’ isn't available today, ongoing research suggests it could be a major future innovation in dental care.

QCCC MAPLETON

WEEKLY ACTIVITY UPDATE

Over the weekend, we are privileged to host a long-standing self-help group with deep ties to the Mapleton community. This charity has held camps with us for decades, providing vital connection and encouragement for participants who find strength and renewal through these gatherings.

Next week begins with a busy first half. From Monday to Wednesday, one Brisbane-based school will split across two QCCC sites—hosting their Grade 8 cohort here at Mapleton while their Grade 10 students undertake a Survival Camp at Cobb & Co Campgrounds. It's always a pleasure to work with schools that utilise our full Sequential Camping Program, building continuity and deeper learning across multiple grade levels and locations.

From Wednesday to Friday, we welcome a Grade 8 camp from the Caboolture region. Alongside them, we're also running a leadership camp for a Sunshine Coast school, with selected Grade 6 and Grade 12 students spending two days with us. Their time will focus on developing leadership capabilities and cohort connection. Rounding out the week is a Grade 4 camp from the Brisbane area, who will enjoy a tailored mix of outdoor activities, team-building and adventure.

Another full and vibrant week of purposeful engagement, growth, and outdoor adventure across multiple age groups and camp styles.

What Is a Sequential Program?

QCCC's Sequential Camping Programs provide schools with a structured outdoor education journey across multiple year levels. By linking camps from Year 3 through to Year 12, students build on each experience—growing in resilience, teamwork and personal development through consistent and age-appropriate adventures across our four QCCC sites.

A FUN AFTERNOON FOR FAMILIES AND OTHERS.

Spiranthes australis

Austral ladies' tresses

Family: Orchidaceae

Distribution: Widespread in marshy areas of the east coast from central eastern Queensland to South Australia but also in high rainfall grassy places.

Spiranthes australis is the most well-known orchid in Japan. It is first attested in the Manyoshu collection of poetry, which was compiled ca. 760 CE. It is found in common places such as balconies, private gardens, and lawns. It is also seen in parks in natural spaces.

Spiranthes australis is a relatively easily grown species, so much so that plants occasionally occur as weeds in greenhouses. Generally the plants are grown in pots in a freely draining, sandy mix. They require good air circulation in a protected position of about 50% sun during the active growing period after flowering.

Currently flowering across the region. A very small local species so often overlooked and if the grassy areas are mown often, this species will be lost.

ATTRACTING WILDLIFE TO YOUR GARDEN

This week providing shelter

You can provide shelter for small animals in your garden by adding natural habitat features like log piles, dense plants, and rockeries, or by installing purpose-built structures such as nest boxes, bug hotels, and small animal houses.

Natural Habitat Features

Encouraging natural habitats is a simple and effective way to provide shelter.

- Leave a 'wild' area: Allow a corner of your garden to grow wild with long grasses, leaf litter, and twigs. This provides cover, nesting materials, and attracts the insects that many small animals feed on.

- Create log piles and rockeries: Piles of logs, branches, and rocks create cool, shady nooks and hiding places for creatures like frogs, lizards and invertebrates. Place them in an undisturbed area, potentially near dense vegetation.

- Plant dense and spiky native shrubs: Using plants with dense or prickly foliage offers excellent protective microhabitats for small birds and other wildlife, buffering them from predators and weather.

- Add a water source: A shallow pond or birdbath provides essential water for drinking and bathing. Ensure there is a ramp (like a stick or stone) for small animals to climb out if they fall in, and clean it regularly to prevent disease.

Purpose-Built Shelters

You can also install man-made shelters tailored to specific animals.

Nest boxes: These are artificial hollows that provide nesting sites and housing for birds, bats, and possums, especially important in urban areas where old trees are scarce.

Bug hotels/insect shelters: These structures, made from layered natural materials like bamboo canes, straw, pine cones, and old wood, provide safe spaces for beneficial insects and solitary bees to rest and breed.

General Tips

Avoid chemicals: Do not use pesticides or harmful chemicals in your garden, as they can harm wildlife directly or indirectly through the food chain.

Protect from predators: Place shelters in locations safe from predators like cats and dogs, such as elevated areas or near dense, spiky bushes.

Provide variety: A range of different habitats and plant types will attract a wider diversity of species.

Be patient: It may take a few seasons for wildlife to discover and settle into the new habitats you create.

Brachychiton acerifolius
Illawarra flame tree

Small to medium spreading deciduous tree: in its natural habitat it can grow to 40 metres, but generally reaches 10-20m in cultivation.

Leaves are shed before flowering in late spring to summer. The bell shaped flowers can cover the whole tree in a glorious display of red to sometimes red orange.

Prefers sunny to light shade locations with well drained soil.

Attracts bees, other insects, birds.

The seed is nutritious and can be eaten after toasting. Native to the east coast Australia.

THE TAWNY FROGMOUTH TAKES THE TITLE AS AUSTRALIA'S 2025 BIRD OF THE YEAR

After three years placing runner-up, the Tawny Frogmouth has finally claimed the title as the country's 2025 Bird of the Year, earning the adoration (and votes) of bird lovers across the country.

Often mistaken for owls, Tawny Frogmouths are actually more closely related to nightjars and even hummingbirds. They're found across Australia, from bushland to suburban gardens, and feed on a varied diet of insects, rodents, reptiles and frogs.

During the day, they blend into their surroundings by perching motionless on branches, stretching their bodies upward and closing their eyes to resemble a broken limb. Their silver grey plumage mimics tree bark so convincingly that you could easily walk right past one without realising it's there.

While the Tawny Frogmouth remains common and widespread across the country, they face growing threats from habitat clearing and poisoning from some kinds of commonly used rodenticides, an issue affecting many nocturnal hunters.

SAVE MORE WITH THE PBS SAFETY NET

By Natalie, your local Hinterland Pharmacist @ Lindner Family Pharmacy, Mapleton

Hello everyone,

Many of us in the Hinterland rely on regular medicines to stay healthy — and we know how quickly those costs can add up. That's where the PBS Safety Net can really help. It's a government program that lowers the price of your Pharmaceutical Benefits Scheme (PBS) medicines once you've spent a certain amount in a calendar year (January to December).

Here's how it works:

- Concession card holders get PBS medicines free once they reach the Safety Net (brand surcharges may apply if non-generic medicine is requested).
- General patients pay only $7.70 per PBS item for the rest of the year after reaching the Safety Net.

Total thresholds may change each year. Every time you fill a PBS prescription, the amount you pay goes toward your annual Safety Net total. You can ask us for a PBS Safety Net record card, and we'll update it each time you visit. Other pharmacies you may have visited can send through a PRF (Patient Record Form) on your request to enable totals to be added for your family.

The Safety Net resets every January, so now's a great time to check how close you are. Pop into the pharmacy for a chat — we're always happy to help you track your progress and make sure you're not paying more than you need to for your medicines.

WILDFLOWERING BY DESIGN

A celebration of native wildflowers and women's connection to place | 17 Oct to 30 Nov 2025 at the Caloundra Events Centre.

Wildflowering by Design Marni Stuart | After the Fire | 2022 | Digital surface design, paint and pen on board | 40 x 60cm | Image courtesy of the artist

This exhibition draws inspiration from ground-breaking women, such as artist/environmentalist Kathleen McArthur, to present contemporary responses by artists from the Sunshine Coast and beyond. New artworks and designs reimagine and celebrate native wildflowers and women's connection to place.

This project was made possible by funding from the Queensland Government through Arts Queensland.

Yes, a single dose koala chlamydia vaccine, developed by the University of the Sunshine Coast, has been approved by the Australian Pesticides and Veterinary Medicines Authority (APVMA) for nationwide use in wildlife hospitals, clinics, and in the field. The vaccine is a world first and aims to protect koalas from the devastating effects of the disease by reducing infection, preventing disease progression, and sometimes even reversing existing symptoms.

Development: The vaccine is the result of over a decade of research and has been successfully trialled on hundreds of wild and captive koalas.

Approval: It has been approved by the APVMA for both production and nationwide rollout.

How it works: The vaccine works by training a koala's immune system to recognise and fight the chlamydia bacteria, specifically targeting the major outer membrane protein (MOMP).

Benefits:Reduces the risk of infection.

Prevents the disease from progressing to a clinical stage.
Can reverse symptoms in some cases.
Offers a safer alternative to antibiotics, which can disrupt a koala's digestion of eucalyptus leaves.

Administration: It is a single-dose vaccine, making it more practical for wildlife management.

Future: The next steps include securing funding for a large-scale rollout to at-risk populations and ongoing research to ensure long-term success.

MAPLETON REMEMBRANCE DAY
11 NOVEMBER 2025

A bright sunny morning to quietly reflect upon the sacrifices made to keep our country free.

Matt Dykes, President of the Mapleton RSL Sub-Branch once again conducted an outstanding service with Lloyd Anderson as guest speaker. The largest crowd for many years attended along with the students and staff from the Mapleton State School. The Blackall Range Lions members supplied morning tea providing the perfect accompaniment for sharing fellowship after the service.

The Montville Chamber of Commerce has welcomed new leadership, with Arabella Lubbers of Montville Woods Gallery elected as the new President, and Daniel Hoffman of The Clock Shop Montville as Vice President. This transition follows the departure of long-serving President Shiralee Cooper, who has moved to the role of Treasurer.

New leadership team
President: Arabella Lubbers (Montville Woods Gallery)
Vice President: Daniel Hoffman (The Clock Shop Montville)
Treasurer: Shiralee Cooper(Illume Creations) (formerly President)
Secretary: Nicole Hilton

Montville's growing number of new small businesses and a renewed sense of optimism are fuelling a revival in the hinterland village, according to newly elected Montville Chamber of Commerce president, Arabella Lubbers.

Ms Lubbers said the Chamber was focused on positioning Montville for sustainable growth while preserving its unique character.

Close up of a stingless bee

To attract pollinators [bees, butterflies, moths, flies, birds] to your garden, provide a continuous supply of food, a reliable water source, shelter for nesting and resting, and crucially, avoid the use of pesticides.

Provide Food

- Plant Native Species: Native plants are best as local pollinators have evolved with them and are adapted to their pollen and nectar sources.

- Ensure Continuous Blooms: Select a variety of plants that bloom at different times, from early spring to late autumn, to provide a consistent food source throughout the seasons.

- Diversify Flower Types and Colours: Different pollinators are attracted to specific flower shapes and colours. Bees prefer blue, purple, and yellow, while butterflies favour bright red, orange, pink, or purple blooms. Include a mix of flower shapes (e.g., flat, tubular, cup-shaped) to cater to various species.

- Plant in Clumps: Grouping the same plant species in large patches makes them easier for pollinators to find, so they expend less energy foraging.

- Incorporate Herbs and Vegetables: Allow some herbs and vegetables like basil, mint, oregano, chives, and dill to flower, as their blooms are rich in nectar and highly attractive to bees and beneficial insects.

Avoid "Double Flowers": Many modern hybrid flowers with dense, multi-layered petals (often labelled "double") contain little or no pollen and nectar, making them difficult for pollinators to access.

Provide Water and Shelter

- Add a Shallow Water Source: Place a shallow dish or birdbath filled with water in your garden. Add pebbles, stones, or floating corks to give insects a safe place to land and drink without drowning. Clean and refill it regularly to prevent stagnation.

- Create Nesting Sites: Many native bees are solitary and nest in the ground or in existing holes. Leave an area of bare, undisturbed soil in a sunny spot and consider adding brush piles or dead wood.

- Install a Bee Hotel: Provide shelter for solitary bees by installing a "bee hotel" made of bundled hollow stems or a block of wood with various sized holes drilled into it. Place it in a sunny, sheltered spot.

Go a Little "Wild": Leave some areas of your garden a little unkempt. Overgrown patches, dandelions and clover in the lawn, or a layer of fallen leaves can provide vital shelter and habitat for various life stages of pollinators.

Adopt Organic Practices

- Avoid Pesticides: Pesticides, including organic ones, can be deadly to pollinators and beneficial insects. Opt for natural pest control methods and only apply any treatment in the late evening when pollinators are less active, avoiding the flowers themselves.

OPEN NOW

The toilets at Sunshine Coast Council's Lilyponds Park in Mapleton have recently been upgraded and are now open. The refreshed toilet block is now more accessible and includes a new accessible cubicle and an ambulant unisex cubicle, as well as a new accessible pathway from the car park.

- Upgrade completed: The toilet block at Lilyponds Park has been refreshed and reopened.

- Improved accessibility: The upgrade includes a new accessible pathway from the car park and an accessible cubicle within the renovated toilet block.

- Other improvements: The toilet upgrade is part of a larger project that also added a new multi-use half court for basketball, netball, and pickleball.

Sunshine Coast Mayor Rosanna Natoli said the $480,000 investment, which was shaped by community input, bolstered connectivity and liveability in the area.

'Whether it's a game of basketball or pickleball, a walk through the gardens or simply enjoying the outdoors, this space now offers more ways for people of all ages and abilities to connect, move and thrive,' she said.

'We worked in connection with the Mapleton community and delivered upgrades that make Lilyponds Park more accessible, inclusive and active for everyone.'

Councillor David Law said the Mapleton community had long asked for the improvements.

'We heard the call for better accessibility and more recreational options, and we've delivered,' he said. Cr Law said the court and new toilet block was a direct result of community feedback.

Many community organisations supported this project including the Mapleton State School, the Mapleton Community Hall, the Mapleton Library Community Centre and Mapleton and District Community Association along with numerous individual community members. A great combined effort.
