 NOVEMBER 6
 MALENY COMMUNITY CENTRE · MALENY

Somewhere between Dermot Kennedy and Noah Kahan, Liam Higgins writes vivid, melodic songs full of place and memory. Praised by Notion for "balancing cinematic production with deep emotional resonance", the Brisbane-born artist spent several years developing his sound in London before recording his boldest record yet in Vancouver: sophomore EP 'Love Is A Language', out November 6. Now back home, and with singles receiving airplay on Nova (The Maddy Rowe Show) and editorial support from Apple Music, Liam brings his full band show to a run of dates across South East Queensland and Northern NSW. Expect stories and vulnerability, big choruses and a band that knows when to hold back and when to let go.

Quarry Services Notification

Blast notification – Image Flat Quarry Rescheduled quarry blast: 2 November

Please be advised that the previously notified rock blast at Image Flat Quarry has been postponed due to inclement weather and is now scheduled for 2 November weather permitting.

We apologise for any inconvenience and thank you for your understanding.

Timeframe: Between 9am and 3pm (weather and site conditions permitting)

Location: 178 Image Flat Road, Image Flat

On the scheduled day of the blast, please ensure adequate measures are in place for household occupants, animals and livestock.

We appreciate your understanding and cooperation as we work to ensure the safe and efficient operation of Image Flat Quarry.

Vibration and noise information

Ground vibration and air overpressure (noise) may occur from blasting activities. We apply best practice blasting techniques to minimise disturbance where possible.

Noise limitations are specified by Environmentally Relevant Authority (ERA) Permit EPPR00777413 issued by the Department of Environment and Science.

Council's qualified blasting contractors operate within compliance guidelines set by the Department of Environment, Tourism, Science and Innovation for conditions of environmental authorities issued under the Environmental Protection Act 1994.

The Musicians

7 NOV: 3pm and 7pm
102 min – France – Comedy/Drama
(mild themes and coarse language)
MALENY COMMUNITY CENTRE
23 MAPLE STREET MALENY

Astrid, a wealthy heiress, purchases four extremely valuable Stradivarius instruments to fulfil her late father's wish for a premiere performance of his favourite composer's recent work. She recruits four musicians to play the instruments but surprisingly, for a quartet to work well together it requires more than just throwing together four talented soloists with big egos. All does not go smoothly, and the composer himself is reluctantly brought in to help. As classically trained musicians themselves, the actors Mathieu Spinosi, Daniel Garlitsky, Emma Ravier, and Marie Vialle bring the required authenticity to the screen. Set amidst the villas, vineyards and chapels of the stunning Champagne region, this film has an exquisite original score by Grégoire Hetzel. Director Gregory Magne has created an audience favourite to delight all our senses.

The Lions Club of Blackall Range

We are delighted to announce the arrival of "Bonnie", the Lions Assistance Dog proudly sponsored by Blackall Range Lions. As a major sponsor we had the honour of naming her and will be able to follow her progress as she grows into her role as an Assistance Dog. After an intense internal competition, we proposed a number of possible names to Lions Assistance Dogs for them to choose the most appropriate based on gender, temperament and looks.

Bonnie is a beautiful Labradoodle and over the next 8–10 months, she'll be learning all the foundational skills she needs with her dedicated puppy carers before beginning her full-time training to become an Assistance Dog. Here at Blackall Range Lions, we are thrilled to be following Bonnie on her journey and are looking forward to sharing with our local community.

Hearing Assistance Dogs was introduced to Australia in 1980. In 2020 the program was expanded to include Medical Assistance Dogs and in 2024 the Psychiatric Dogs Program was introduced. Lions Assistance Dogs are provided completely free of charge to those in need. The website - www.lionsassistancedogs.com.au is highly recommended to read about the history and future of these beautiful puppies and the wonderful work they do.

EVERYTHING YOU NEED TO KNOW ABOUT BEAK AND FEATHER DISEASE

It's a sorry sight: a sickly, scruffy Sulphur-crested Cockatoo with a long, misshapen beak and a bald spot.

Unfortunately, this bird is in the late stages of infection from a disease called psittacine beak and feather disease, or PBFD. Sadly, the prognosis is grim – it's an incurable disease, but it's also largely preventable.

Here's everything you need to know about psittacine beak and feather disease, including the easy steps we can all take to help reduce the spread and keep our native birds safe.

Psittacine beak and feather disease (PBFD) is a common and highly-infectious viral disease found in wild and captive birds. While it mostly affects birds in the parrot family (including cockatoos and lorikeets), different strains of the virus have been reported in other species of birds.

Also known as psittacine circoviral disease (PCD) or ‘bald cocky disease’, the virus can be transmitted orally (by sharing food) or through faeces, skin or feathers. It can survive on natural and artificial surfaces, including nest hollows and feed stations, for many months.

PBFD attacks and kills the fast-growing cells of the feathers, beak and claws. It also suppresses the immune system, leaving birds vulnerable to secondary infection. Sadly, as there is no effective cure or treatment for PBFD, it is often fatal.

Impacts

First described in 1888, PBFD appears to have originated in Australia. Today it is widespread, having been reported in every state and territory, and affects at least 38 species of native parrots.

PBFD can also be transmitted by people: anyone who has been in contact with an infected bird can spread the disease via their clothing or hair. However, PBFD presents no known risk to human health.

What are the symptoms of psittacine beak and feather disease?

Depending on the age and species of the bird, the clinical signs and progression of PBFD are highly variable. It may take weeks or even years for a bird to show any physical symptoms, and some birds can appear normal in the early stages of the disease – making it difficult to detect in wild populations.

In young birds, signs and symptoms of acute PBFD include:

Weight loss, diarrhoea, depression, anaemia, sudden changes or abnormalities in developing feathers, sudden death.

Signs of chronic infection in older birds include:

Abnormal loss, colour or development of feathers, deformed or overgrown beak or claws, immunosuppression, feather loss and baldness, difficulty eating or flying, and eventual death.

Look out for:

- Dead, broken or deformed feathers (may appear curled or short and club-shaped)
- Off-white or ‘dirty’ feathers in birds with white plumage, such as Sulphur-crested Cockatoos
- Shorter/missing tail and wing feathers (especially in Rainbow Lorikeets)
- Unusual colour changes, such as green feathers turning yellow, or blue feathers turning white
- Cracking and peeling of the outer layers of the claws and beak (may appear flaky or shiny, due to loss of powder down)
- A deformed, overgrown or brittle beak or claws.

What to do if you find a wild bird with suspected PBFD

While PBFD-infected birds may still be able to fly, it’s important that they are taken to a vet or wildlife carer to ease their suffering and the risk of transmission to other, healthy birds. Without intervention, their prognosis is grim – missing feathers compromise their ability to regulate their body temperature and waterproof their plumage, their long and brittle beak and claws cause feeding difficulties, and their weakened immune system makes them vulnerable to infection.

If you find a wild bird with any of these symptoms and it is safe to do so, try to capture and transport it to your local vet or wildlife carer for assessment.

For smaller parrots, use a cardboard box, as this can be disposed of after use. For larger birds, use a plastic or metal box or carrier which can be disinfected after use. As this is a highly infectious disease, remember not to keep any birds with suspected PBFD in the same room or enclosure as other birds. Shower and change your clothing after handling an infected bird.

If you are unable to capture the bird or if it is very sick, contact your local vet or wildlife rescue for advice.

The Queensland Government under Premier David Crisafulli's LNP administration reviewed and drafted a new State Planning Policy (SPP).

A core shift in the updated policy document includes the removal of specific references to "climate change," which were previously integrated into areas like community health and resilience. Instead, the revised framework shifts its focus toward a restructured planning model prioritising housing delivery and economic growth.

What Changed in the Draft SPP?

The policy overhaul has reshaped how the state directs local councils to manage future land use:

Omission of "Climate Change" Language: Legal and planning analyses of the draft document highlight that references to "climate change"—particularly regarding plan adaptability, resilience, and promoting community health—have been struck out.

Restructured State Interests: The policy condenses older structures into direct categories like housing, economic land, infrastructure, and a combined "environment, heritage and efficient growth" sector.

Shift on "Urban Heat" vs. Broad Climate Goals: While broad climate change terminology was reduced, the government has pointed out that the draft targets specific practical impacts, such as explicitly addressing "urban heat islands" for the first time.

Grow Australian Plants

Graptophyllum ilicifolium

Holly-leaved fuchsia

Grows to 1.5–3m tall, column-shaped, with glossy holly leaves that have toothed margins.

Red flowers during spring if planted in full sun or light shade.

Prefers well-drained, low-nutrient soil.

Slow to establish in a garden situation. Especially useful species for narrow spaces.

Attracts insects.

Native to Mackay, Queensland.

Currently flowering along the Blackall Range.

Masked Lapwing 30–37cm
Spur-winged Plover
Vanellus miles

General description: Black capped, pale brown to brown bird with white underparts and yellow facial skin and wattles. Pairs, sometimes small groups in grasslands and similar. Can show aggression when protecting young at nest by diving on intruder. Will move away from nest to distract threat.

Habitat: Cleared areas, mud alongside waterways, dams, town parks, golf courses, playing fields and footpaths.

Male and female: Head black. Face yellow facial skin and prominent wattles. Eyes, eye ring and bill yellow. Back brown. Rump white. Wings brown, yellow spurs. Tail white, black subterminal band. Underparts white. Legs and feet dull red.

Juvenile: Back and wings brown with black ends giving scalloped appearance. Legs grey.

Flight: Slow with clipped, quick wingbeats.

Call: Commonly heard call of open areas: grating and metallic 'kek kek kek...'. Often repeated, also rattling trills. Heard calling as it flies at night.

https://ebird.org/species/maslapl?siteLanguage=en_AU&continue

Feeding: Insects mainly taken on the ground, also herbage, small crustaceans, frogs, worms, molluscs. Feeds by walking or running a short distance, pausing and scanning the soil, then tilting forward and pecking or probing for prey. Sometimes taps foot to disturb prey in grass.

Breeding: Nest a depression in the ground lined with grass and often sheltered by grass. Eggs 3–4, yellow-brown or yellow-olive blotched with brown freckles. Breeding season August to December, variable. Although equipped with a spur on each wing, the Masked Lapwing does not use this defence appendage in diving attacks as it would do itself irreparable damage. 6 other lapwings worldwide have spurs. Could be left over from a more primitive existence like the claws of the juvenile Hoatzin of the Amazon that drop off as they mature.

23 MAPLE STREET MALENY

Directed by Jim Jarmusch (Mystery Train; Dead Man; Paterson), this anthology drama explores the dynamics within three separate families, spread between Anytown USA, Dublin and Paris. The ensemble cast includes Tom Waits, Adam Driver, Mayim Bialik, Charlotte Rampling, Vicky Krieps and Cate Blanchett. The film is broken into three thematically linked episodes. In the first two we see parents at their worst: deceitful, egotistical, and manipulative. The third episode introduces twin siblings, played by Luka Sabbat and Indya Moore. After the death of their parents they return home, sifting through the family's documents and photographs, in search of a deeper understanding.

BLACKALL 100 – 2026 RACE RECAP

What a weekend. The Blackall 100 delivered everything it promised and a little more — including weather that turned our beautiful trail network into something considerably more challenging than the training runs suggested. More than 1,000 competitors took to the trails regardless, and the stories of grit, determination and personal achievement that came back with them were exactly what this event is all about. Mapleton was buzzing all weekend, with local businesses doing a roaring trade and the town showing once again why it is such a wonderful host for Queensland's premier ultramarathon.

Congratulations to all who competed across the 100km, 50km and 21km distances — finishing any of them in those conditions was an achievement worth celebrating. The overall podiums told their own story, with two course records falling on the day.

100km — Matt Lowrey took the men's title in 10:07:24, with Chris Beazley second and Majell Backhausen third. Buha Bali won the women's race in 11:08:16, ahead of Kathryn Parkinson and Meagan Brown.

50km — Jordan Ryan broke the course record with a stunning 4:14:15, followed by Mark Buick and Dustin Phillips. Zoe Manning won the women's race in 4:43:01, with Lou Betts second and Nicole Miller third.

21km — Nick Mooney, Tim Leeming and Nathan Dortmann finished within 38 seconds of each other in one of the tightest men's finishes the event has seen. Lydia O'Donnell took the women's crown and another course record — crossing the line just three minutes behind the men's winner. That is seriously quick.

We are grateful to Run Queensland for their continued partnership, to the volunteers who made the weekend possible, and to the Mapleton community for welcoming more than a thousand muddy, determined runners with such good grace. See you on the trails next year.

ZONTA CLUBS OF SUNSHINE COAST

Zonta Club of Blackall Range; Zonta Club of Noosa, Zonta Club Caloundra City, Zonta Club of Maroochy

MEDIA RELEASE

DOMESTIC AND FAMILY VIOLENCE PREVENTION FORUM

On Saturday, 14 November 2026, the combined Zonta Clubs of the Sunshine Coast will host a community forum at the UniSC Auditorium (Sippy Downs). The event will focus on breaking the cycle of domestic violence for young people.

Discussion will include the impacts of exposure to violence, the factors contributing to intergenerational cycles of abuse, and key opportunities for prevention and early intervention.

Keynote speakers include:

Associate Professor Divna Haslam and Murray Benton, presenting on the impacts of exposure to domestic violence, associated attitudes and social influences, and strategies for earlier, more effective intervention. Sergeant Clair Parsons, providing a frontline policing perspective on the critical need for coordinated responses across police, families, schools, and community services.

This event reflects Zonta's commitment to strengthening community awareness and action. Together, we can help break the cycle of domestic and family violence for future generations.

STRETCH RECONCILIATION ACTION PLAN 2025-2028

Learn about our commitment to advance reconciliation within our organisation and across the region.

The Stretch Reconciliation Action Plan 2025-2028 (the Stretch RAP) is Council's formal plan to advance reconciliation, providing a structured framework for meaningful, enterprise-wide action.

It sets a clear vision and practical steps for Council and its partners to take in partnership with the First Nations community to work toward an equitable and inclusive future.

This plan aims to strengthen our partnerships with Traditional Custodians and the local First Nations community, drive tangible social and economic outcomes for First Nations peoples, and create inclusive workplaces and communities that recognise and value First Nations cultures.

The Stretch RAP is Council's fourth plan since commencing its reconciliation journey in 2011. It focuses on deepening our commitment and further embedding reconciliation into business-as-usual through long-term strategies, high impact commitments and measurable targets and goals.

Advancing to a Stretch RAP positions Council as a leader in reconciliation.

The plan was developed over 18 months in partnership with Reconciliation Australia. It is informed by extensive input and feedback from Council officers, stakeholders, and First Nations community partners.

The Lions Club of Blackhall Range

Peace Poster Competition - 2026

For nearly four decades, the Lions International Peace Poster Contest has given children aged 11-13 the opportunity to share what peace means to them through art. This year the theme is Harmony in Humanity, inviting young people to imagine a world where people of every culture and background can live together peacefully - celebrating differences, finding common ground and creating true harmony in humanity. This year Blackall Range Lions has worked with our two local schools to participate in the competition. It has been our pleasure and privilege to spend time with the wonderful staff and students at both Mapleton and Montville schools.

In the senior category the winning posters (left to right) are: Sutthida from Montville (1st); Camille (2nd), and Ada from Mapleton (3rd). Sutthida's entry has been sent to District for judging at the next level of the Peace Poster Competition. Sutthida explained that her poster represented a stairway of hope and harmony over war and destruction.

To better reflect the age group at our local schools, Blackall Range Lions Club created a special junior section to be judged separately from the senior competition. Our theme is: Peace and Quiet. The Prize winners in our local junior section are: Zoe (1st); and Ebony (2nd) from Mapleton; and Beth from Montville (3rd).
